

Compendium of Veterinary Products Animal Health Product Label Information

An animal health product label provides lots of useful information for us but sometimes the labels become unreadable or lost. The Compendium of Veterinary Products is a great tool for a person to use to access full label information. It is recommended that consultation with your veterinarian occurs before choosing a product to insure the best application and drug choice is made for your animals and farm conditions.

To access the compendium go to: www.verifiedbeef.org Once there, look at “quick links – veterinary products” – this link will take you to the compendium.